

Paper and Tape

By Polyglot Theatre

Visual Story

Before Paper and Tape

I will go to the Ulumbarra Theatre to be part of Paper and Tape.

Ulumbarra Theatre is a big building with red brick walls and a large concrete staircase at the entrance.

Ulumbarra Theatre means 'gather together' or 'meeting place' in the language of the local Dja Dja Wurrung people.

There will be friendly people who will let me know that I am in the right place. I can say hello if I want to.

Other people will be arriving, and they will also be part of Paper and Tape.

Some Polyglot People I might meet:

Justine

Youbi

During Paper and Tape

There will be different types of recycled paper and tape.

I can make characters, plants, costumes, creatures and more.

Polyglot performers will also be creating and playing.

I can choose what I do in
Paper and Tape.

I can add my creation to the space or take it home
with me.

After Paper and Tape

When Paper and Tape is finished, I will leave the workshop space.

I can explore
The Creativerse.

I can create with paper and tape at home, and play with my family and friends.

My space to draw

About Polyglot Theatre

Polyglot Theatre is a world-renowned contemporary theatre company based in Melbourne/Naarm, making exceptional arts experiences for children and families. Our unique brand of theatre encompasses a wide variety of forms and is shared with audiences everywhere, from the world's most prestigious stages to the football grounds of regional Australia.

Polyglot's artistic and philosophical approach of child-centred practice has earned us a strong reputation at home and abroad as a leader in the Theatre for Young Audiences sector, celebrated for creating distinctive, participatory works that are playful and conceptually rigorous. Access is fundamental to our work at Polyglot; we are driven by the right of all children to experience growth and resilience through creative play.
